About Me

Hello, my name is Damian and I am a progresive WebDeveloper.

I like to work with the accuracy and good quality taking care of each even a small-time detail.

These days I am looking for a job as a junior Web Developer or an apprenticeship which will enable me to get new skills and build up already learned. I would like to work with people who really love what they do.

I am still going to develop myself in what I do and gather new abilities in programming.

Except all above I am really keen on archeological excavations and travelling. I am also a big fun of different cultures and meeting new people.

If you like my application, give me a call.
